

Populism and the Personalization of New Parties

Panel Chairs:

Odelia Oshri, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, odeliaoshri@gmail.com

Gideon Rahat, Hebrew University of Jerusalem, msgrah@mscc.huji.ac.il

Abstract:

Together with the wave of new parties we observe an intensification of populism and of the personalization of politics. Are many of the new political parties just a mere platform for ambitious politicians? (How) are the "old parties" reacting to the new rise of populism? Do they follow this example (for example, Sebastian Kurtz List)? Can we observe a change in campaigning strategies and beyond? We invite papers that will look into these issues, from conceptual and theoretical papers to empirical papers, and from single case studies and focus comparisons to large n studies.

If you have a Paper you think might fit in this Panel, please contact the Panel Chair before 9 February with the following information:

- Title of the paper (no more than 20 words)
- Abstract of the paper (no more than 250 words)
- Author's (and if applicable co-author's) email address as registered in their MyECPR account
- 3 – 5 keywords